

United Registrar of Systems (Holdings) Ltd

The URS Holdings Head Office is based in United Kingdom and offers Services under the unique concept of Reliable Operational Safety. The concept of Operational Safety has evolved from our long-term experience of risk management and management systems certification, gained through cooperation and working with a diversity of organisations around the world. Every organisation has its unique business activity and looks for an effective way to increase its value. The Operational Safety offers companies and mainly the management a guarantee of safe operation and cost reduction. The Reliable Operational Safety concept includes services like management systems certification (ISO), product certification (CE), personal certification, training, inspection services, technical equipment revisions and further services offered through the URS Holdings in more than 40 countries. URS Holdings offers various services worldwide on the basis of acquired accreditations. An independent legal subject maintains each accreditation with a centralised management system as part of the group.

URS Bangladesh Ltd was among the first few Certification bodies to establish in Bangladesh. We conducted our first audit in February 2000 and since then we have been providing service our valuable clients in Bangladesh. We are grateful to our clients who choose URS as their certification body to work with them as partners in their endeavour to achieve excellence by improving the efficiency and effectiveness of their management systems and processes various ISO management system standards. Our strength from the very beginning has been our clients. Our clients act as our ambassadors and promoters and have been the main reason for our growth in Bangladesh. Following our Head Office philosophy our team in Bangladesh always strives to support and service our clients as top priority. Services provided by URS offer practical support for business and are now becoming an essential part of risk management.
